What Have I Done?

Alfred Sutro wrote a little known play called Maker of Men. It contains a scene where a bank clerk comes home to his wife, having failed to receive a promotion. “I see other men getting on; what have I done?” he said to her.

His wife replied, “You have made a woman love you. You have given me respect for you, and admiration, and loyalty, and devotion—everything a man can give his wife, except luxury, and I don’t need that.”

Solomon wrote, “Live joyfully with the wife whom thou lovest all the days of the life of thy vanity, which he hath given thee under the sun” (Ecclesiastes 9:9). —Bob Prichard

“Coming together is a beginning, staying together is progress, and working together is success.” —Henry Ford

“In the final analysis it is not what you do for your children but what you have taught them to do for themselves that will make them successful human beings.” —Ann Landers

““What a child does not receive, he can seldom later give.” —P. D. James

“Teach your child to hold his tongue; he’ll learn fast enough to speak.”
—Benjamin Franklin

“The work will wait while you show your child the rainbow, but the rainbow won’t wait while you do the work.” —Patricia Clafford
