Where in the Bible Will I Find . . . The Premillennial Theory in Revelation 20?

Evidently the one asking this question has studied both the premillennial theory and Revelation 20, and has found no indication of compatibility between the two! It is good to see a close and astute student of the Bible weigh and eliminate the "hay from the stubble" or Truth from error. Jesus said, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free" (Jn. 8:32). We are commanded to "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good" (I Thess. 5:21). We are to "beware of false prophets [teachers], which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves" (Matt. 7:15). Even if all men believe a false theory, that does not make it true. And if all denominations accept the theory of premillennialism as true, that would not make it true. Though the false teacher claims to receive support for his theory from Revelation 20, there are seven necessary parts of premillennialism that are not stated in Revelation 20:

1. The second coming of Christ is not mentioned.
2. A bodily resurrection of the righteous is not mentioned.
3. All righteous persons gathered in Jerusalem.
4. A reign of Christ on earth.
5. Christ's return to the earth.
6. The length of Christ's reign on earth.
7. Jerusalem as the capitol and Christ as King.

When these necessary thoughts of premillennialism cannot be found in Revelation 20, the theory certainly cannot be proven by Revelation 20. Not only can one not prove the theory by Revelation 20, neither can it be found taught in the Bible at all. Those who reigned with Christ "a thousand years" are the ones who had been slain by those who opposed the Word of God during the first century.

These faithful souls had obeyed the Gospel by faith, repentance, confession, and baptism, and thereby had a part in Christ's death, burial, and resurrection (Jn. 11:25; Co1. 2:12; Rom. 6:1-4). We pray that all men today will do the same.

Take a Moment to Listen

Take a moment to listen today To what your children are trying to say;
Listen today, whatever you do Or they won't be there to listen to you.
Listen to their problems, listen for their needs Praise their smallest triumphs, praise their smartest deeds; Tolerate their chatter, amplify their laughter, Find out what's the matter, find out what they're after.

But tell them that you love them, every single night And though you scold them, be sure to hold them; Tell them "Everything's all right; tomorrow's looking bright!"
Take a moment to listen today To what your children are trying to say.
Listen today, whatever you do And they will come back to listen to you. —Denis Waitley, HTH
