Appreciate Simplicity

Simplicity adds quality and contentment to your life.

Simplicity comes from learning to say “no.”

Simplicity is being as satisfied with what you don’t have as with what you have.

Simplicity involves removing the clutter.

Simplicity means never buying something for the purpose of impressing others.

Simplicity refuses to get caught in the trap of overspend-ing, overcommitting, and overworking.

Simplicity enjoys happiness and treasures joy.

Simplicity cherishes tranquility.

Simplicity knows how to be content in whatever situation you find yourself.

Simplicity celebrates God’s creation and sees God in the small stuff.
